DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) do not apply to the examination of this application as the application being examined was not (1) filed on or after November 29, 2000, or (2) voluntarily published under 35 U.S.C. 122(b). Therefore, this application is examined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

2. Claims 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by U.S. Patent No. 6,405,256 to Lin et al.. Lin et al. disclose a method for temporarily increasing an effective serving rate (by increasing a buffer size) for a router configured to receive packets transmitted through a communications network at a time instant corresponding to an onset of congestion of the router (Col. 1, line59-col. 2, 21; col. 3, lines 8-28; col. 4, line 29-38; col. 8, line 46-67; and col. 9, line 1-14).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 2, and 3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lin et al.

Regarding to claim 2, Lin et al. fail to expressly disclose an auxiliary storage area for storing packets that would otherwise be stored in a queue at the router. However, based on what Lin et al. teach: the buffer may include both disk memory and random access memory (Col. 4, line 39-41), it would have been obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art by the time the invention was made to configure a disk memory as an auxiliary storage area for storing packets that would otherwise be stored in a queue at the router because the auxiliary storage area is only needed on congestion occasions and it is a waste of resources when using expensive queue for a function that is rarely needed.

Regarding to claim 3, Lin et al. disclose when the expandable buffer is full, the router CSM sends a message to the upstream router CSM-1 to cease further transmission (Col. 8, line 66-col. 9, line 3). It can be understood that the data that is supposed to be stored in the buffer of the server CSM is now stored in the memory of the upstream router CSM-1 or the router CSM further expands its auxiliary memory by borrowing the memory of the upstream router CSM-1. Therefore, it is inherent that the auxiliary storage area is associated with a physical storage device external to the router.

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claim 4 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Art Unit: 2663

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments filed 12/30/02 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.
7. Applicant has asserted that Lin et al's method increases the effective serving rate of a router corresponding to the onset of congestion. In response, Lin et al do disclose the claimed features, which are mentioned in detail in the rejection of claim 1.
